

Visit San Sebastian

The Concha Beach is a must go for everyone.

San Sebastian is a coastal city in the Basque Country in northern Spain. The capital of Gipuzkoa province, it's referred to as Donostia in the Basque language and officially known as Donostia-San Sebastian.

It is one of the most visited cities in Spain and famous for its beaches and world-renowned cuisine. It offers an exciting range of culinary experiences from pintxos to txokos to sidrerias (cider houses) and Michelin-starred restaurants.

San Sebastian,
also known as Donostia-San Sebastián

WAVES, SURF and youngsters. These are the main features of the Zurriola Beach, San Sebastián's liveliest and vibiest stretch of sand. Located in the district of Gros, between the Kursaal and Monte Ulía, ever since it was remodelled 15 years ago the Zurriola Beach has become a favourite with surfers and youngsters who come from all over the world in search of fun and new acquaintances.

The main economic activities are commerce and tourism. San Sebastián is one of the best-known tourist destinations in Spain.

The main reason for visiting the "Zurri", as the local youths like to call it, is to move your body. This lively aspect is precisely its greatest attraction.

Pinxtos are usually eaten in bars or taverns as a small snack while hanging out with friends or relatives; thus, they have a strong socializing component, and in the Basque country and Navarre they are usually regarded as a cornerstone of local culture and society.

Parte vieja is the small historic inner city of San Sebastian at the foot of Monte Urgull. It is a small neighbourhood with small streets and historic buildings. It is an ideal place to visit the bars and try some pinxtos!

Photos: <https://www.pexels.com/search/san%20sebastian/>